The new fast-casual restaurant opened in March, offering customers all kinds of authentic Mexican food like tortas, burritos, burrito bowls, tacos, quesadillas and nachos, with plenty of options to build each with their preferred ingredients.

Owners and brothers Nicolas and Reyes Arreola also run Dos Hermanos Market at 412 W. Michigan Ave. With the market being so close, the brothers said all the ingredients they use are fresh. Reyes said during the summertime the restaurant sources from local farmers around Ypsilanti.

Everything on the menu of the restaurant is "made to order," which keeps the restaurant's freshness, Reyes said.

When it comes to top sellers, Reyes said customers have mentioned their tacos, burritos and tortas are the "best in town."

The secret behind the success of their burritos and tortas is finishing them off in a panini grill which adds a crunch, Nicolas said.

"Nobody else does it that way around here," he said.

Another popular item is the Cubana Torta, which is made with traditional Mexican-style Telera bread, bean spread, mayonnaise, cheese, breaded chicken, hot dog, ham, egg, lettuce, tomato, jalapeno and chorizo, Nicolas said.

The business also has added some new menu items like Elote Loco, which is corn on the cob covered in mayonnaise and crumbled Takis.

Other new menu items include churros and Mangonadas, which are made with mango slushie, Chamoy and Tajin. Nicolas describes the mango frozen drink as a good mixture of sweet and spicy.

As the colder months arrive, the Arreola brothers are planning to add even more items to the menu, such as soups and a popular warm chocolate drink called Champurrado.
